Zooming Into Monthly Net Sales in 2017

There was a significant drop in Sales from September (1M) to November (563K), a 43,7% decrease. The decline continued in December (452K), with another 19,7% drop from November.

Was there a falling star' department, one that shined in September but took a steep dive in November and December?

In 2017, 5 new departments made their grand debut, bringing fresh opportunities to the market. However, their arrival came with an unexpected twist — sales in older departments saw a noticeable decline compared to 2015. But the real mystery lies in the dramatic shift we see in the monthly sales of 2017. Sales took a significant plunge, dropping from 1M in September to 563K in November, and then falling even further to 452K in December.

Was there a star department that shined brightly in September, only to take a steep dive in the months that followed?

In the next episode, we dive deep into the sold departments from September to December to uncover the mystery. Which departments vanished? Which ones impacted sales the most? Stay tuned as we reveal the disappearing stars that changed the game !

KEY INSIGHTS

September:

- Net Sales were 1M, with sales coming from Apparel, Fan Shop, Golf, Footwear, Fitness and Outdoors.

October:

- Net Sales dropped slightly to 966K.
- The highest Sales generating department was Technology, followed by Apparel, Footwear, and Fan Shop.
- New departments were introduced in 2017; Discs Shop and Book Shop, but they generated little revenue due to low prices and a limited number of products.
- Question: Did the introduction of new departments contribute to the disappearance of the 2015 high-revenue departments?

November:

- A significant drop in Net Sales to 563K.
- Only 6 departments were sold:
  - Low-revenue departments: Pet Shop, Health & Beauty, and Discs Shop.
  - Higher-revenue departments: Technology, Outdoors, and Apparel.

December:

- Another drastic decline in Net Sales to 453K.
- Fan Shop, which was previously a top-selling department, became the lowest revenue generator.
- Three departments sold were low-revenue generators: Discs Shop, Book Shop and Pet Shop.

The Introduction of new low-revenue departments in October may have contributed to the decline of high-revenue 2015 departments. This shift, along with reduced sales in top-performing categories like Fan Shop, led to a significant drop in Net Sales from November to December. This indicates that clients love the 2015 high revenue departments, and they should always to sold to maintain strong sales.
